For next Tuesday John A. Martin, the gallant soldier and able Governor.

Vote for the exceptionally able State ticket.

Vote for Andrew B. Wilson, the party's choice for Congress—the able jurist, the man who is not a pretender.

Vote for J. Wayne Amos—a man who is of the people and for the people, and who will stand by the people to the hilt of legislation.

Vote for C. J. Frederickson—the polite and capable gentleman who has so efficiently served as clerk of the District Court during the years gone.

Vote for Joseph Moore—the enforcer of all laws—and one of the best prosecuting attorneys Saline county ever had.

Vote for Agnes J. Carruthers—the successful, energetic county superintendent—who is always at her post.

Vote for W. H. Bishop—a splendid specimen of the young Republicans at the county—full of energy and ability, and in every way fitted to administer the office of Probate Judge.

Vote for A. L. Dodge—one of Saline's best business men and possessing large property interests—who has the welfare and best interests of our growing city at heart, and as county commissioner of the First District would see that they are all attended to.

Vote for John W. Burke—a representative farmer, an earnest Republican, an old soldier, and honest man, who is well suited to guard the interests of the large agricultural district which he will represent as commissioner from the Third District.

Vote for the entire ticket we have named, and you will never regret it if you live until you are four score years and ten.

It is believed that Henry Peters, a witness in the Haddock murder at Salina, Kan., was killed by the assassin to prevent his revealing his names. A decomposed body was found on the 4th inst., at Crescent, Iowa, and interred in the potter's field at Council Bluffs, was exhumed Tuesday, and an examination of the clothing led to the almost complete identification of Peters.

EDITORIAL COMMENT IN THE YALE COURIER, to the effect that Sunday services in the University are what they should be, and that the students are fed on "dry hocks of religious conventionalism" which can hardly be expected to develop a practical and robust Christianity, has created a sensation among the students and faculty.

KANSAS BOODLERS.

The Use of Money at the Concordia Convention by Friends of Anderson Alleged by Colonel Haddock.

GREENLEAF, Oct. 25.—[Special.] There are probably many descendants of the Puritans in Washington and Maryland counties, but it seems the desirable traits of that early people have become lost in the journey from New England to Kansas. Much has been said about the Concordia convention, and hints of money transactions have been thrown out involving prominent people in this section. We have laid daily harrowing boots "hodgepodge," and the independent papers delight to fill their editorial columns with disquisitions against the "infamous fraud" that perpetrated the Concordia fraud.

These good people have finally had something to say about themselves, and while their doing may not be such as to surround them with a halo of glory, nor to give them a particularly enviable reputation, it is presumed they have laid to rest the claims of membership in the Topeka Anarchist club, whose usefulness consists in taking in money and then spending it on the gross growth of truth.

In an interview held with a delegate to the Concordia convention from the county (Washington), the following was obtained, using his words as nearly as possible. As Mr. Haddock has given the same story to others, and while the witness wishes to testify to and prove his truth, there can be no longer any reason to keep from the public this hitherto unwritten chapter of the gathering. Mr. Haddock said this city, said: "After we had been in convention two days, I found out that money was being offered, and I determined to know what was going on. I had a talk with Colonel W. W. Smith, and before we were through I had an offer of $1,000 if I would vote for Mr. Anderson. I was not satisfied with this, and told Colonel Smith there would have to be too much more. He offered me $3,000. He could do nothing more, but promised to see about it. Leaving me to go across the river to the hotel and talk with Mr. Purcell, and came back to me and said he would give me $5,000, that Mr. Purcell had given him check for $1,000 and $2,000, to be used in securing the four votes for Anderson."

"I waited until the next morning two weeks later, and started out down to the caucus room. Going there I saw Needham, one of our delegates, going toward the Anderson caucus and followed him. At the stairs I met Patchin, and asked him if it was all right. I knew he was one of the crowd fixing things. He wanted to know what I was talking about, when I said, 'Oh I know what is going on. I am fixed. In Needham all right, and it is fixed for him?'"

"Patchin then came down and told me to tell Needham it was all right, and to bring over his delegation. I then found that Needham was to receive $4,000 for delivering the Washington county delegation to Anderson. Going up stairs I called Needham one side and told him what I had said, and it was all fixed. He tried to pay innocent, but I said I was there, that I was not a fool, and proposed to have my share. He then said he had made his arrangements with Perry Hutchinson and Will Smith, and to receive $4,000, which he intended to divide with the delegation."

"I took him over to the anti-Anderson caucus where we wanted to see our crowd, but they were not there. We found out Perry Hutchinson had three of them locked up in a room at the hotel. One of them, Oswald, Hutchinson had captured as he was going up the stairs to the caucus room, took him down and laid him out, and then went to the hotel, and then up the stairs to the hotel."

"These regulations were pending until the last evening, Colonel Smith holding the clock. At that time there was a making up of the anti-Anderson forces, and it seemed certain Anderson would be nominated. The offer to use was then cancelled, and Needham was told he must come over anyway. It was at this time Purcell telegraphed Anderson that he would be nominated on the first ballot in the morning. I believed so, too. When the time came for the convention, in fact, about a dozen anti-Anderson delegates remained at the hotel and would not go up, feeling that it was all over."

"When we got into that squabble and took an adjournment, as you know, the caucus decided upon Judge Wilson. Needham was all broken up, as he would not go against our own man, and he saw the little fellow departing from him. He broke down and cried like a child. I made him go to the hotel, where he locked himself up, and we cast the full vote of our county for Wilson."

"Hutchinson, Patchin, W. W. Smith and Haddock did all the work on the outside for Anderson under direction of Purcell, and made arrangements for the 'bribe' of votes."

A new alloy is announced which is especially adapted to various important uses in the arts. It melts at the low temperature of 1,161 degrees F., the temperature of moderately hot water, and considerably below that at which the single species of long ago melted in a cup of tea. Its composition is Bismuth, 48; cadmium, 15; lead, 19; tin, 20; and it is said the alloy will withstand quite a severe pressure.

Constipation.

It is said that 50,000 people die annually in the United States alone from this disease. In some sections of the country one death in every three is from Constipation. This can be and should be avoided our people are too careless about an ordinary cough or cold, and other symptoms of throat and lung affections that lead to this disease. You should arrest it while it is in the germ. Two or three doses of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup will relieve an ordinary cough or cold. It does not dry up a cough like many preparations on the market and leave the disease behind it, but acts directly on the throat and bronchial tubes, removing all the phlegm and morbid matter that accumulates in the throat and lungs. It allays all irritation and renders the Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by sense of weight in the back, lower and lower part of the abdomen. The patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidney or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moulure, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Internal, External and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the seat of the disease, removing the tumor, allaying the intense itching and effecting a permanent cure where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces disability, but try it and be cured. Price 50 cents. Ask your druggist for it, and when you cannot obtain it of him, we will send it, prepaid, by mail, on receipt of price. Address Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piquette, Ohio. Sold by Oscar Seitz.
